

Retail

From elegant Victorian arcades to buzzing retail centres, the widest range of shopping experiences are waiting to be enjoyed. Exclusive or quirky. Mainstream or contemporary. Vast or varied. All tastes are catered for.

You're never far from modern and convenient options. Such as the Touchwood Centre in Solihull with its contemporary and relaxing retail areas. Head northwards for Telford Shopping Centre with 145 stores and more to come. We also have some of the largest shopping centres around with Merry Hill and Bullring in Birmingham.

- * It's the new shopping capital of Europe. Bullring offers an array of shops, boutiques and restaurants right in the centre of Birmingham. The Bullring is also the home of the futuristic Selfridges department store which was voted one of the future seven wonders of the world by Conde Nast Traveler Magazine
- * The Mailbox in Birmingham houses the largest number of designer stores outside of London – brand names include: Christian Lacroix, Emporio Armani, DKNY and Harvey Nichols
- * The first standalone Louis Vuitton store outside London is also located in Birmingham
- * Charming market towns and picturesque villages in Shropshire, Herefordshire & Worcestershire offer unique character and a wide variety of specialist shops
- * Atmospheric markets are sprinkled liberally throughout our towns and cities, with local producers selling a range that no supermarket could compete with
- * The Region offers a diverse assortment of Asian products – including silks, sarees, jewellery and delicious Asian delicacies
- * Arts and crafts are well represented in the Region. For example, Wedgwood, Moorcraft and Royal Doulton are just some of the world-famous names that are made in Stoke-on-Trent where, factory shops offer bargains to canny shoppers
- * The Jewellery Quarter in Birmingham produces more than a third of all the jewellery created in the UK, and has a vast array of shops to suit all needs
