

The World of Cuisine

The range and reputation of the Region's restaurants continues to grow. Known as the home of rich cultural diversity, the evidence is all around in the wide choice of great places to eat. This is complemented by an abundance of stylish new restaurants and bars that will delight any palate and quench any thirst. French, Italian, Greek and Spanish all abound, as do restaurants representing the varied cuisine of China and the Indian subcontinent, and more unusual choices like Thai, Persian and Japanese.

- * For exclusive restaurants or atmospheric café bars, head for the lively locations of Brindleyplace, The Arcadian and the stylish Mailbox in Birmingham
- * The Region has its fair share of Michelin-starred restaurants; such as Jessica's and Simpson's – both in Edgbaston, Birmingham
- * We boast the most extensive range of exotic cuisines. For example, the 'Indian' Balti was created in the Region with numerous expert restaurants found in popular hotspots such as Sparkbrook and Sparkhill to the south of Birmingham City Centre or Lye in Stourbridge
- * Dine in Ludlow, Shropshire where you can chose from the widest selection of Michelin-starred restaurants in any town outside London
